PRESIDENT'S PEN

Council elections have been run and won with new faces elected to Council after Roger Newman and Tim Haslam did not seek re-election. The two retiring Councillors combined for a total of 33 years of experience serving on Council: 21 years for Roger including 11 years as Deputy President and 12 years for Tim. Although the length of service is admirable it was the quality of service that made both exceptional contributors to our community.

Roger Newman, the Councillor, would always offer a considered opinion during discussions and often questioned the impact of Council decisions on those less well-off in our community. He has extensive expertise in machinery and equipment and brought those skills to plant replacement decisions. Perhaps his greatest strength was to map a calm, logical and clearly explained approach particularly to controversial issues.

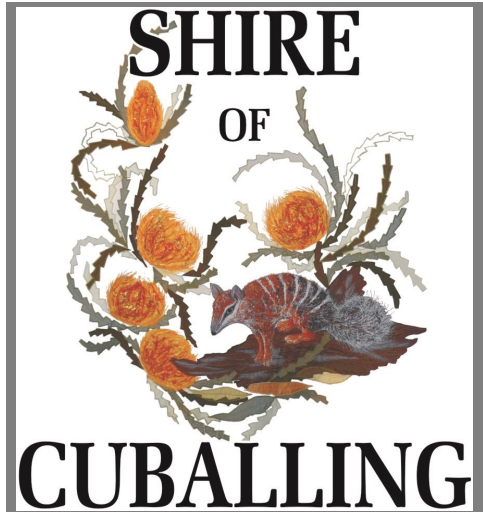

Tim Haslam, the Councillor, would spend many hours thinking through the issues, even away from meetings, and would often bring further clarity to discussions. He was concerned with equity and fairness, and tenacious if these values were challenged. He was quite forthright at times and didn't shirk away from making hard decisions that benefited the whole of the community.

Thank-you gentlemen for your contributions to our shire and I wish you well in the future.

Regeneration of Councils is an exciting time and congratulations to incoming Councillors Rob Harris and Deb Hopper joining sitting Councillor Dawson Bradford for the next four years on Council. Congratulations must also go to all candidates for being brave enough to nominate and provide genuine choices for electors in a ballot that saw 33% voter turn-out, 3% higher than the state average. I look forward to the new ideas and contributions that will shape our Council's thinking into the future.

Hotham-Williams sub-catchment update

PHCC Working Together
Peel-Harvey Catchment Council

Edition 37
November 2019

NRM is the management of natural resources such as land, water, soils, plants and animals. It brings together land use planning, water management, biodiversity conservation and sustainability of industries such as agriculture, mining, tourism, fisheries and forestry.

River Action Plan Site Assessments

We have had a busy week completing the Hotham-Williams River Action Plan site assessments where we identified the assets, attributes and threats to the health of 7 sites along the Hotham and Williams River at Ranford Pool in Boddington, Pumphreys Bridge, Hotham River Nature Reserve, Popanyinning, Williams, Boraning, and Quindanning.

The purpose of the River Action Plan is to identify priority actions and projects to help protect the ecosystem health and function of the Hotham and Williams Rivers and their abutting Riparian zone.

Over the week we had a total of 16 helpers including PHCC (staff and volunteers), Urbaqua, Newmont Gold Corp and local landholders.

A big thank you to all the landholders who allowed us to gain access to the river through their properties, it was very helpful and saved us a lot of walking. The river health assessments will occur later in October.

Narrogin Agricultural Show

PHCC had a great day at the Narrogin Show where we shared a stall with Project Numbat and the Department of Biodiversity, Conservation and Attractions (Parks and Wildlife Services).

We spent the day speaking with landholders and interested community members about our current projects. We also held a Numbat colouring in competition which was a hit with the kids - congratulations to all the winners.

On Farm Surface and Sub Surface Water Workshop

A successful workshop was held on 20th September in Williams to provide farmers with different strategies for on-farm surface and subsurface water management to improve crop productivity.

The workshop included a farm visit to the Fowler family "Crossman Farm" to view their water management practices which include a combination of interceptor banks, conservation fencing on hilltops and planting (and fencing) the valley floor with native vegetation.

This event was funded through PHCC's Greening Farms project.

AFRICAN SWINE FEVER

Let's keep ASF out of Australia.

The Cuballing Shire is home to around 10% of Western Australia's pork production with as many as seven local farming families involved in the industry. We need to safeguard these operations. They support local businesses and grain growers and provide employment opportunities in the area.

African swine fever (ASF) is the biggest biosecurity threat Australia has faced for many years. There is no vaccination or cure for the virus and it has an almost 100% fatality rate for the pigs it infects. Already 25% of the world's pig population has been wiped out by ASF. The disease is on our doorstep with the virus detected in pigs in Timor Leste, which is only around 700 kilometres from Australia.

Although the disease is highly contagious to pigs there is no threat to human health or food safety from ASF so pork producers are urging consumers to keep eating pork.

Pork producers have stepped up biosecurity on their properties, but they cannot keep the disease out of Australia on their own and they need help from everyone in the community especially travellers, hunters and people living in regional areas. The virus can be transferred through clothes, shoes, water, feed, faeces, semen, urine, vehicles, knives, biting flies and ticks, from pork products being fed to pigs and spread by vermin and birds.

An outbreak of ASF in Australia would result in international trade restrictions which will eventually impact on other commodities as our reputation for being clean and green would be damaged.

Pork producers are asking everyone to be extra careful when disposing of food. Make sure it cannot be picked up by another bird or animal and carried into a piggery. Please don't drive on to a piggery without checking with the owners first and don't bring pork products with you. That ham sandwich could inadvertently bring the whole industry to its knees if it happens to be contaminated with the ASF virus.

Feral pigs have been a major source of infection in Europe. If ASF got in our feral pig population it would be very hard to eradicate. It is important that hunters dispose of feral pigs properly and do not transport live or slaughtered pigs inappropriately. Feral pigs are Declared Pests in Western Australia so landholders must manage them correctly.

We might think it is unlikely that ASF will find a foothold in Australia but already 27 tonnes of pork products have been confiscated at the border and in recent weeks almost 50% of those products have been contaminated with the ASF virus. We don't want to take chances with animal health or our trading reputation. The flow on impact to local communities would be severe.

Now is the time to be extra careful and vigilant. Any suspicious symptoms in pigs can be reported to the Emergency Animal Disease (EAD) hotline number on 1800 675 888.

Please help us keep Australia ASF free.

Have you heard of African Swine Fever

African swine fever (ASF) is a very real threat to the sustainability of local farms and the health and welfare of pigs. ASF is a highly contagious and deadly viral disease of domestic and wild pigs, currently spreading through China and South East Asia. There is no cure.

Australia remains free of ASF - and we want to stay that way. An outbreak in Australia would devastate the Australian pork industry and have flow on effects throughout our communities.

Only by working together can we keep African swine fever out

For further information contact Australian
Pork Limited on 1800 789 099

It's important to remember that people can't "catch" ASF from pigs or from pork – it is not harmful in any way to people.

Pork is safe to eat.

HOW CAN YOU HELP?

- Report sightings of feral pigs to the Department of Primary Industries and Regional Development (DPIRD)
- If you own pigs, ensure you have a biosecurity plan, and that you comply with the mandatory pig traceability requirements (www.pigpass.australiapork.com.au/faq).
- Adhere to farm biosecurity requirements if you are an employee or a business that supplies materials or services to pig farms.
- If you are a pig hunter ensure all vehicles, clothing and equipment is washed and disinfected after hunting trips.
- Report the GPS location of any groups of dead feral pigs to the EAD Hotline 1800 675888.
- Don't bring pork products into Australia from overseas.
- Don't feed pigs pet food, food scraps or waste containing meat – swill feeding is illegal in Australia and serious penalties apply.
- Don't leave food scraps containing meat in the bush after hunting or camping trips.

CUBALLING VOLUNTEER ACTION GROUP

We had a successful verge clean up between the Cemetery and Grout Road. 16 bags of rubbish were collected altogether. 10 recyclable 6 non-recyclable.

It is disappointing that we found the same items being deposited on the verge which suggests a consistency in littering rather than random road users.

OUR HISTORY—CUBALLING RAIL STATION

The Cuballing station commenced as a siding called Cuballing Pool on the Great Southern Railway. The 1894 Gazetteer quotes it as being 187 miles from Albany (not Perth), the rail fare from that centre being 32 shillings.

Interest in Cuballing station was very strong in 1896. On 8 August that year material for fencing the station was on hand and the Western Australian Land Company was requested to proceed. The fence was duly erected with two large gates leading into the weighbridge and two more gates and the separate turnstile opposite the hotel. These gates were closed each night, leaving the turnstile for the use of passengers coming and going by the late trains. The fence completely enclosed the station yard with the exception of the stockyards where stock were held until loaded into trucks ready to be taken away by train. The main thoroughfare, Alton Street, was illuminated at night by very grand carbide lights which Caesar Lyons lit each night for many a year.

The Railway Department later built a new long, wide platform and a loop line behind the Cuballing station from signal to signal. This was to accommodate the costly blunder the Government had made in granting the Wickepin rail link to Narrogin instead of Cuballing. It was found that railway locomotives could pull only 350 tons over the Chuggamunning Hill (the highest point on the Great Southern) from Narrogin but once at Cuballing they could haul 700 tons to Perth. Hence, the loop line was used to hold half a train until the next half train arrived, after which the two were combined.

After June 1930, with the station downgraded to a siding, George Senior was re-appointed as caretaker until 1947, living in the railway house. The upsurge of goods being hauled led to Cuballing being once again upgraded to fully attended station. The staff worked eight-hour shifts around the clock as some thirty trains came through each day.

Throughout the years much of the station work was done by the safe-working porters whose duties included ensuring that trains got
